TWO GREAT GAMES PLAYED

The Carlisle Indians Defeated Pennsylvania State.

THE DAY WAS PERFECT

The Bellefonte Academy Played a Splendid Game at Altoona But did not Score on the Mountain City Boys.

A STORY OF THE TWO GAMES.

The first of the two big football games of the local season was played on the Seminary Athletic Field Saturday afternoon when the Carlisle Indians defeated State College by a score of 18 to 5.

The day was an ideal one from the spectators' point of view and the crowd attracted to the Seminary Field was the largest one which has ever seen a foot ball game in this city. This assertion is not guess work, but is based upon the receipts of the game. The Williamsport Merchants Association has had charge of the advertising of every big game Williamsport has seen and has a record of each game. This record shows that the receipts of Saturday's game were largely in excess of those of any previous game ever played here.

The crowd began coming before the gates were opened and when 1 o'clock the hour for opening came there was a string of automobiles and carriages at the carriage gate and of men at the main entrance, all wanting to get good places.

The big crowd was a brilliant one. College colors were everywhere and were proudly waving whenever the occasion offered. The State College boys, with their band, occupied the north bleacher, and from the time of their arrival made the place noisy with their cheers and songs. Even when the game was going against the Blue and White the cheering section never wavered, but continued to hurl defiance to the Indians and give all possible encouragement to the State team.

But it was not State's day and in spite of all her team and its supporters could do the Indians continued to push them back and the unerring toe of Houser sent goal after goal from placement over the crossbar. And just here let it be said that Houser gave what will probably stand as one of the best exhibitions of kicking from placement for this year. Five times he fell back for the effort, three times he went squarely over the bar, one he missed by a few inches, and one kick was blocked, the Indian line failing to hold.

The game was highly spectacular and the kind which keeps a crowd up to the highest pitch of excitement. The forward pass was worked by both teams from several formations. Both had a long forward pass in which the ball was passed from 20 to 35 yards. The Indians were the most successful at this play, making good gains, rarely being penalized for failing to catch the ball and still more rarely losing the ball. State, after she had lost the ball several times by an Indian catching it, was more careful in using the play but made some good gains with it.

State started off with a play by which she manoeuvred around the end without any interferance whatever. At first it looked like a failure of team work but its use several times in succession for good gains showed that it was far from a piece of careless work and before the Indians could solve it or break it up State had pushed them more than half the length of the field.—Gazette

THE ACADEMY GAME.

The Altoona high school foot ball team opened its home season on the gridiron Saturday afternoon with a scrappy and exciting game with the Bellefonte Academy eleven at Columbia park. It was a typical school game and was marked with great enthusiasm from the beginning and ended in the local boys playing the visitors to a standstill and a 0 to 0 score. The crowd was a large one, the biggest that has ever turned out at any of the school's athletic exhibitions, and there was plenty of noise to add interest to the contest, there being the schools's brass band and a big bunch of rooters to cheer along the Altoonas to victory. Bellefonte played a scrappy game, despite the fact that it was entirely an Altoona crowd and that they were strangers in a strange land and without friends. There were numerous critical stages in the game, when it looked as though both teams would score, but the loss of the ball at the right time for the scoring of a touchdown prevented scoring.

The Altoona boys opened the game with a kickoff, after which Bellefonte made several attempts to gain through the line and around the end and finally lost the ball. Bellefonte's boys took a brace and held Altoona and secured the ball on downs. Fullback Smith, a husky youngster, was sent against Altoona's line several times and made gains and Bellefonte lost the ball on a fumble, after it had been carried into high school's territory. Herr worked a delay pass for a gain and then once more Altoona was held without a gain and lost the ball. A fumble by Bellefonte cost them the ball, it falling into Gettamy's hands in a scrimmage. The half ended with the ball in midfield. In the half neither team had much opportunity of scoring, the play being practically confined to the midfield.

Bellefonte kicked off in the second half and Corboy received the ball and rushed it back down the field for a good gain. Martin and Corboy made ten yard gains around the ends and when the enthusiasm ran the highest Bellefonte once more made one of its stonewall stands and secured the ball. They carried it back into Altoona territory to within reaching distance of the coveted goal. A field goal was attempted and it failed. Altoona kicked from the 25-yard line and then followed a series of line rushes by Bellefonte for gains but once more lost the ball on a fumble. Altoona used Martin in the first play and he carried the ball for a gain of fifteen yards through Bellefonte's line. Furry made a twenty yards gain and with the ball in mid-field the game ended. An Aged Recruit.

No other Grand Army Post in the United States, it is believed, has ever attained the unique distinction which is now enjoyed by T. D. Stineman Post, of South Fork. At their meeting last Saturday night the members of the post mustered in Bernet Salkeld, aged 9g years, whom they believed to be the only man in the country to affiliate himself with the organization at such an advanced age, and they are correspondingly proud of the new recruit.

MITCHELL VERY ILL.

Friends of the Labor Leader Very Much Alarmed.

HE MAY NOT RECOVER

There are Strong Symptoms of Appendicitis and he May Have to Under go Another Operation of Serious Nature.

HE IS NOW CONFINED TO HIS BED

Indianapolis, October 8.—The condition of John Mitchell, president of the United Mine Workers of America, is giving his friends here much concern, and some of those who are associated with him express the belief that he will never again be well. He has never fully recovered from the operation he underwent last spring. There have been strong symptoms lately of appendicitis and it is possible that another operation may be necessary.

His physician positively refuses to discuss the case and this reticence adds to the fears of his friends, as it seems to indicate a serious condition. Mitchell is now confined to bed and for two days no one has been admitted to his presence.

RUSSELL SOLT DIES IN THE HOSPITAL

The Young Lamp Lighter Dies From Being Burned.

Russell Solt a young man about 18 years of age died in the Bellefonte Hospital on Thursday evening from burns received while lighting the lights at Howard. The sad accident is as follows:

On Tuesday evening between six and seven o'clock Russell Solt, of Howard, was very badly burned through an explosion of gasoline. Young Solt was just recently given the job of attending to the street lights in that town, which consists of gasoline lamps. He filled the lamps Tuesday afternoon and when he struck a match to light the lamp near the railroad in the evening there was an explosion and instantly he was enveloped in flames. His cries attracted the attentention of M. H. Burgett, of Bakerton, Cambria county, who while waiting for the train was occupying his time walking up and down along the railroad, and seeing the young man's predicament took off his own coat and smothered the flames. The clothing was practically burned from the upper part of Solt's body and his arms, face and upper portion of his body were badly burned. Physicians at Howard dressed the burns and on Wednesday he was brought to the Bellefonte hospital, where he died on Thursday evening. The body was taken to Howard for interment.

Had Forty-four Horse Trainers.

Three cars of race horses came up the Broad Top from Cumberland on Saturday morning and it was found that there were forty-four men in the cars to take care of the animals. The express company allows three men to each car, and a kick was made.

The authorities of Huntingdon had great trouble with the men in order to get them out of the cars. All sorts of threats were made against the express company and the railroad, should not the horses receive the proper attention in their trip to Harrisburg. The final ending of the case was that Officer Clymer assisted by the local police, the express agent of Huntingdon and the Huntingdon train master, emptied the cars of the excess number of men and put coaches on the rear end of the train for the men to ride in and made them pay their fares.

Col. E R. Chamber's for District Attorney.

Colonel E. R. Chambers, in his letter accepting the nomination for District Attorney, said, "The farmer who works from day light to late evening at hard labor in order to meet his living expenses, should not be forced to pay extra taxes for mistakes made in our criminal courts. Larency, burgulary and murder have run riot in our county of late, and if I am elected I pledge myself to brake this up and stop it without unnecessary expense to the tax-payer.

He is acknowledged to be the criminal lawyer in this county. Will you vote for him?

THE FIRST DEFENDERS

Company H. 7th P. V. I. will Have a Reunion at Boalsburg.

Forty-six years ago last April when Fort Sumpter was fired upon and the division between the North and South was widening and the war clouds of that awful rebellion were hovering over our homes, when father and son were making ready to go to the front to defend our glorious old Union, when excitement reigned supreme not only in the larger cities and towns, but it reached every little village and hamlet in the United States.

It was at that time a company was organized in Centre County known as the Company H. 7th P. V. I. or the First Defenders. Men enlisted from Bellefonte Centre Hall and Boalsburg and in fact most every little town in the county had some representatives. The company organized at Boalsburg with Captain Robt. McFarland as their commander. They were taken across to Lewistown in big wagons. Tell you what those were sad days at home, when mothers, wives and sisters bade good-bye to their sons, husbands and brothers, not knowing whether they would ever see one another again. In those days it meant something to belong to a military company. It wasn't long before these three month men were sworn into a longer service and went on down to the bloody battle fields of the South, and there many a young man laid down his life for the sake of his home and country.

77 of them left this little village that day and so on October 19th, a reunion of this company is going to be held at Boalsburg. Only a little remnant of this brave company is left, possibly 20 or 22 and before they all go to their eternal home, they are going to meet again and tell over the stories of their experiences while in the service defending Old Glory. The people of Boalsburg have extended a cordial welcome to the boys in blue to assemble there. They will swing wide open their homes to these braves. A royal time is anticipated, a camp fire will be one of the features of the meeting.

Boalsburg is a historic little town for from within her boundries many young men went to the front, and we feel sure that they will welcome the old soldiers with hearts full of love and patriotism.

Big Fire at Zion.

On Monday afternoon while the men were threshing at the home of Benj. Kauffman at Zion, a spark from the engine set fire to the large barn, the flames spread raidly and as a strong wind was blowing the sparks were carried to the barn of Horace Kauffman's, it was not long until that was all in flames. The sparks were carried by the wind to the barn of Henry Garbrick's and that was soon burning. In less than a half hour after the fire broke out, the three barns were burning. The loss will be immense, as all three gentlemen had all their hay and most all their grain stored away. They had some insurance but not enough to cover the loss. One horse and a calf and a lot of chickens were burned. The Bellefonte Fire Companies were asked to be ready in case they were called. The Central Railroad had an engine and car to take the boys down, when the word reached here that the fire was under headway. We certainly feel very sorry for these gentlemen and hope that they will rise from their loss and be more fortunate in the furture

Married at Court House.

The private office of Register and Recorder Losch, at the court house, was the scene of a quiet wedding this morning; or, at least, there is supposed to have been a wedding, although no one who was present will admit the fact, and the bride and groom are supposed to have left the city. The interested parties were Harry A. Vaughan of Newark, N. J., and Minnie B. Leathers, of Howard, Pa. The couple visited Mr. Losch's office and soon afterward Alderman A. J. Rhoads, with a pleasant smile on his face, arrived. The door was closed and there were no witnesses to the ceremony performed other than those directly interested. Evidently the newly-wedded couple desired to keep the marriage secret.—Williamsport Sun.

Football Player Dies of Kick.

Thos. Bertram, aged 20 years of Altoona, Pa., received injuries during a foot ball game Sunday that caused his death. Bertram, who is a member of the Altoona Athletic team, was playing against the Portage team when he was kicked in the head during a scrimmage. His death it is said will result in prosecutions against those who played Sunday football.

GIRLS LOST IN MOUNTAIN

Two Young Ladies Spent a Night of Terror in the Hyner Forests

ATTACKED BY BIG BEAR

Miss Muriel Simpson and Miss Levina Emerick Shouldered their Guns and Went to the Mountains Where they Got Lost.

HORRIBLE EXPERIENCE IN THE WOODS

Miss Muriel Simpson of Williamsport, the pretty 18-year old daughter of G. A. Simpson, superintendent of the Hyner Run Railroad company, decided some few days ago to pay her father a visit to his camp, which is situated along Hyner run some miles north of the Pennsylvania railroad station. Here she met Miss Levina Emerick, another prepossessing young lady of about her own age, whose mother has supervision of the domestic duties of the camp.

An intimacy sprang up between the two girls, whose tastes and inclinations for hunting and other out-door sports ran in the same channels. About noon Saturday the two young ladies shouldered their guns and started up the mountain in quest of game. They finally reached what is known as Bear Pen hollow, where they had an experience they will never forget. In this thicket they ran almost into the very jaws of a large black bear feeding upon the tender shoots thereabouts. The bear was angered by the intrusion and showed fight. Rising upon his hind legs he started toward the young ladies with a low growl and displaying his ugly teeth.

The girls were terror stricken and started in the opposite direction from bruin, screaming at the top of their voices, the bear for some distance being within close range, in fact so close that they could feel his hot breath upon their pallid cheeks. Finally they lost sight of the black monster who evidently gave up the chase, but they likewise found that they had lost their way in their efforts to escape the bear. For hours they roamed about endeavoring to find some familiar object or spot that would give them some idea as to the location of the camp, but the further they roamed the more confused they became when a new horror overtook them, that of being compelled to spend the night in the dense forest of Clinton county.

The shades of night were falling fast and frightened and fatigued girls realized that it would be necessary to spend the night if not longer in the dense wood. They knew to sleep they would be a prey to wild beasts so they continued their trudge through the forests and at times passing through underbrush and thickets of briars and thorns that abound in that locality. In so doing their hands, arms and limbs were torn by these craggy brambles and their clothing was almost torn from their tired bodies. Heart sick and foot sore they wandered on throughout the dismal night.

When the young ladies did not return to camp by supper time the father and mother of the girls began to grow uneasy, fearing that some ill had befallen their loved ones. The locomotive used by this lumber road was started up the mountain with a number of men employed in the camp headed by Superintendent Simpson. The men carried blazing torches of pitch pine and the shrill whistle of the locomotive was kept in constant action. The engine was run to and fro the distance of the railroad, still keeping up the constant whistling and at intervals detachments of men left the cars and took to the woods in search of the missing girls.

Just at the break of day Sunday morning they were located more dead than alive, by a party of searchers, fully 20 miles from camp. The girls were assisted to the railroad and placed on board the train and conveyed to camp. Here they were given restorative, their scratches and bruises dressed and given food and drink, and in a few days will doubtless be none the worse for their night in the wilds of Clinton county.

During their night's journey they traversed three mountains going almost directly away from the camp they so much sought.

FATHER AND SON STRUCK BY TRAIN.

George Stanley and His Son Charles Struck by Evening Mail.

Friday morning George Stanley and his son Charles who live at Roland walked to the iron mill below Howard. It is said they were in search of work whether or not they received employment, we do not know. They were homeward bound and while walking along what is known the six foot path below the Howard station, the evening mail that is due at that place about 4:14 came around the turn, at a great speed the engineer blew the whistle, and when he did so the two men stepped from the path on which they were walking to the track the train was running on. Evidently they thought the train was on the track nearest the station. The engineer sounded the whistle again and threw on all the brakes, but twas to late, the engine struck both men, throwing one to the right and one to the left of the track. They were picked up and brought to the Bellefonte hospital, accompanied by Doctors McEntire and Kurtz of Howard.

Neither father or son were hurt seriously, and it was certainly a miracle that both were not killed instantly. The father has his right leg broken between the knee and ankle and is cut and badly bruised over the body. The son was cut and bruised a good bit, but nothing serious. Mr. Stanley is a gentleman about 54 years of age and his son Charley is 24 years old. A report from the hospital today says they are getting along as well as can be expected under the circumstances.

Philip N. Barnhart.

On Tuesday afternoon at just 4 o'clock, Philip N. Barnhart, who lived just outside the borough limits on Howard street, peacefully passed from the earthly life, the eternal Home beyond.

Last Thurday he was gradually overcome by an attack of paralysis and from that time begin to sink till death ended his suffering at the above mentioned time, despite the efforts made to prolong his life. He was born in Spring township on the 37th of June, 1823, thus being at the time of death aged 84 years, 3 months and 4 days. During the greater part of his life he followed the occupation of a farmer in Spring township, only retiring when age made such a move necessary.

For many years he had been an earnest and active member of the Methodist Episcopal church of Bellefonte, and always guided his life according to its teachings. He was an honest, upright, straight-forward man, and won the esteem and friendship of all with whom he came in contact.

Surviving are two sons, J. Willard and Thompson M., and one sister, Lizzie, all of Bellefonte. Funeral services were held Thursday at 2.30 o'clock, conducted by Rev. James B. Stein. Interment was made in the Union cemetery. The casket bearers were the following gentlemen, Messrs. Henry Tibbens, Winfield Port, Jerry Shutt, Monroe Armor, Samuel Miller, and Shuman Lyons.

First Meeting in the Parrish House.

On Sunday the members of the St. John's Episcopal church held their first meeting in their new Parrish House on Lamb street. The dedication of the little edifice will occur later in the fall. It is certainly a beautiful little house of warship and is a great credit to our Episcopalion friends.

It seems too bad that some good kind hearted person did not come forward with a little check to purchase new furniture for the Sunday School. The old stuff that has been used for years in the basement of the church was placed in the beautiful little house, and certainly does not make a very neat appearance. Perhaps some one who has a little money hanging around will furnish the place with new chairs and pulpit and other necessities. Don't let everyone speak at once. But it would be a splendid gift and we feel sure these folks would not turn the offer down.

Too Many Holidays.

It is stated that the United States steel corporation will replace 2,000 foreigners with English speaking workmen because the former are absent from work too often to observe their respective national holidays. In some instances their plants are handicapped when these foreigners do not report, but a holiday comes first with the average alien and there are about 40 days in each year in which the majority of them are celebrated for some cause or other.

ALL SUPPORT SHEATZ

Independent Voters of the State For Republican Nominee.

EAGER TO GO UPON RECORD

Unsolicited and Enthusiastic Indorsements of Candidate For State Treasurer From Men Who Led Lincoln and City Party Movements.

[Special Correspondence.]

Philadelphia,

Representative John O. Sheatz, the Republican nominee for state treasurer, is assured of the votes of 80 per cent. of the citizens of Philadelphia who supported the City Party nominees who were elected to county offices two years. He is, of course, going to poll the full stalwart Republican vote, so that an unprecedented majority may be looked for at the November election.

Not only are the City Party leaders of this city outspoken in their support of Mr. Sheatz, but from every section of the state come reports that the independents generally intend to swell his vote with the belief that he will make a clean cut and independent official.

Mr. Sheatz has a splendid record as a state legislator. He has had the distinction of being upon both the City Party and the Republican party tickets in his representative district upon the last two occasions upon which he was a candidate, and reformers and regulars continue to indorse his legislative course at Harrisburg.

As chairman of the committee on appropriations of the last house, he performed the arduous duties of that position in a manner to command universal commendation.

All Lined Up For Sheatz.

Here are some expressions from letters that have been received by Mr. Sheatz from men who have been prominent in reform movements.

Former Minister to Italy William Potter, who was the City Party nominee for mayor when John E. Reyburn was elected, wrote:

"I congratulate the commonwealth of Pennsylvania on your nomination for state treasurer. The fight for better government during the last two years compelled your nomination and I hope for your election."

Rudolph Blankenburg, a prominent member of the Lincoln Party in the state and a successful candidate for county commissioner on the City Party ticket:

"It is a great satisfaction to me to know that you were nominated, because I have watched your work in the legislature and admired your courage when you stood almost alone in your fight for the right. If we had only more of this character of manhood in public life everywhere, how happy and harmonious and prosperous we all would be. Whatever efforts I can make to secure your election (which of course, is a foregone conclusion) I shall gladly make."

John H. Converse, one of the heaviest contributors to the City Party:

"I rejoice in the action of the state convention in naming you for state treasurer. Appreciating your position for all that is upright and sound in Republican principles, I believe that we may all rejoice in the action of the convention. I wish you success in your office to which your election is assured."

John C. Winston, chairman of the Committee of Seventy, which has led the independent movement in Philadelphia since 1905:

"I feel that your nomination was a distinct concession on the part of the Republican party to the independent sentiment of the state. I have no doubt whatever of your triumphant election. As a Republican, I am always pleased when the party does the right thing."

Man of Courage and Integrity.

"Your nomination for state treasurer is a tribute to your ability, but in a greater degree, to your courage and integrity. It is a most significant sign of the present time that in state politics, even if not in city politics, a man can best help himself by performing the best service for the people. I heartily congratulate you, but more heartily congratulate the people, that we shall be permitted to vote for a man in whom we can place entire confidence."

Clarence L. Harper, late treasurer of the City Party:

"It gives me the greatest kind of pleasure to congratulate you upon your nomination. Your election will surely follow."

Thomas Martindale, a leader in the Gibboney campaign and active in many other independent movements:

"With you on the front there is no excuse either for a City Party, a Lincoln or a Democratic candidate, and I would rejoice to see you unanimously elected."

Francis A. Lewis, late chairman of the campaign committee of City Party:

"As a citizen and a Republican I shall be glad to give you my hearty and cordial support."

Franklin Spencer Edmonds, late chairman of the city committee of City Party and member of executive committee of Lincoln Party:

"Your nomination gives the Republican party a candidate whose public record entitles him to the support of every member of the party."

These are but sample expressions that have come to Mr. Sheatz from different parts of the state. They show that his Democratic opponent cannot look for independent votes this year. have given public declarations that the charges that Mr. Sheatz did not work fairly in the interests of the old soldiers are absolutely false and malicious.

Representative Gillette, among other things, said:

"The nomination of Hon. John O. Sheatz by the Republican party for state treasurer removes the last doubt as to whether a Republican or Democrat shall fill that important office as the successor of Treasurer Berry. The good sense of the party has prevailed, and a more logical candidate could not have been named. Taking into consideration the exigencies of the situation, the nomination was a master stroke, and all factions of the Republican party can have no further reason at this time for remaining outside the breastworks.

"There is absolutely no truth in the campaign charges that Mr. Sheatz is not a friend of the old soldiers. I say this with knowledge of his work at Harrisburg in their interests."

BALANCE IN THE AIR.

The Necessity For Equilibrium In Bird Flight.

It is likely that the bird's superb ease and grace in the air are due to its ability to maintain absolute balance. If a gull makes the mistake of bending until the wind strikes its head and wings on the top it will tumble instantly. And the sailing birds, though they make no flapping motion of their wings, are constantly balancing themselves, like a man on a tight rope. Some scientists have maintained that the air sacs make it possible for the bird to manage minute changes that are very valuable in restoring equilibrium. It is known that the wing is joined to the body of the bird by what is called a universal joint, enabling the creature to make almost every possible motion. The body of a man is heavier than water, but if he gets into a position of perfect balance he will float. In some such way, it is claimed, the bird floats in the air. But as the bird would fall much more rapidly in the air than a man's body would sink in water the necessity for a far more subtle ability to keep the center of gravity on the part of the bird is apparent; hence, according to this theory, the bird is provided for this purpose with the most sensitive equipment, made up of nerves and mysterious air ducts, many of the wing feathers perhaps acting as sentinels, warning instantly of the slightest approach of shifting currents.—Everybody's Magazine.

ENTERTAINING THE DUKE.

Rudely Interrupted While He Was Chatting With Royalty.

The daily papers do their best, but not even their ubiquitous representatives garner all the store of good things which attend a royal visit to Ireland, says the London Sketch. No paper at the time printed the cream of the stories which grew out of a visit of the Duke of Connaught to the Emerald Isle. "Welcome to Ireland!" said a man as he saw the duke on the steps of a hotel in the little western town in which he was staying. "Welcome to Ireland, your royal highness. I hope I see your royal highness well." "Quite well, thank you," answered the duke. "And your noble mother, the queen. I hope her ould leddyship is enjoyin' the best of health?" "Yes, thank you. The queen is very well indeed," said the duke, vastly amused with the easy familiarity of the peasant. "It's glad I am to hear it. And tell me, your royal highness," the other went on, "how are all your noble brothers and sisters?" Before the duke could answer an aid-de-camp appeared, with, "Here, get along there." The peasant looked up with infinite scorn. "Arrah! What are yez interruptin' for?" he exclaimed. "Can't you see that me and his royal highness is houldin' a conversation?"

A Zulu Rain Charm.

The Zulus employ a rain charm which is very remarkable considering their usual fierceness and cruelty. They catch a bird, and after the tribal wizard has consecrated it and made it a "heaven bird", they throw it into a pool of water. In spite of their own indifference to the sufferings of animals they believe that the sky, which they conceive to be a personality, will be full of woe at the death of the bird and drop sympathetic tribute in showers of rain.

Keep to the Right.

Bishop Wilberforce was out driving one day when a man on horseback stopped him and, thinking to have a joke, asked:

"Excuse me, bishop, but could you tell me the road to heaven?"

"Certainly, sir," the bishop answered. "Turn to the right and keep straight on."

His Scheme Worked All Right.

It is related that a certain man was recently very sad because his wife had gone out of town on a visit, which she would not shorten in spite of his appeals to her to come home. He finally hit upon a plan to induce her to return. He sent her a copy of each of the local papers with one item clipped out, and when she wrote to find out what it was he had clipped out he refused to tell her.

The scheme worked admirably. In less than a week she was home to find out what it was that had been going on that her husband didn't want her to know about. — Ladies' Home Journal.

FOUR HANGED IN LANCASTER

Italian Murderers Pay The Law's Penalty

DEATH CAME QUICKLY.

The Foreigners Were Executed for a Brutal Murder That Occurred During a Raid for Robbery on a Party of Their Own Nationality

THE STORY OF THEIR CRIME.

Lancaster, October 4th.—The scaffold built by Berks county to hang Greason and Mrs. Edwards, and which was used here in June, 1905, for the execution of Lee Furman and John O'Brien, sent four men to their death in the Lancaster jail yard this morning. The men hanged were Italians, Anthony Delero, Stephen Carlui, Sivero Rodelli and Joseph Celicne and the crime for which they paid the death penalty was the murder of a fellow countryman, Plato Albamese, who was killed for offering resistance when the four attempted to rob him.

The execution was private, and Sheriff Zeigler was very strenuous in holding to his declaration that no one should be admitted except those required for carrying the sentence into execution, those provided for by law and a newspaper representation confined to one man from each paper in Lancaster city.

The crime for which the four men were hanged today with the culmination of a daring robbery. On the night of August 30, 1906, they entered a shanty near Gap occupied by fifteen Italian laborers, who were asleep. One of the quartet was stationed as a guard at the door while the other three awakened the sleepers and with drawn revolvers and brandished stilettoes forced them to give up their savings. The amount was small, for the men had only a few days before sent away their money.

Albamese had $30 on his person, which, it seemed was known to the robbers, who demanded it. He denied having any money, whereupon they proceeded to to search his clothes by force. Resisthe seized a razor and fought desperately.

In the melee Albamese was shot and stabbed over twenty times. One of the knife thrusts pierced his heart and two others the lungs. The four made their escape and fled toward Philadelphia.

Councilmanic Candidate.

The Altoona Mirror says: William H. Schofield, the seventeenth street harness maker, announced this morning his candidacy for the Republican nomination for common councilman from the Sixth ward. Mr. Schofield, who resides at 1719 First avenue, has been a resident of Altoona since the year 1898 and is one of the city's representative citizens. He stated to a Mirror representative that he would come before the people of his ward on a square deal platform, believing in giving every one his right's and granting special favors or privileges to none. Mr. Schofield has hosts of warm friends among the followers of all parties and it was only at the solicitation of his friends that he permitted his name to be used in connection with the nomination. Mr. Schofield is a nephew of our esteemed townsman Hon. James Schofield. It does seem strange how a family will be devided. Now our townsman says his nephew fell from Grace and that is the reason he is a Republican, and the nephew has been pleading with his uncle with tears in his eyes trying to get him to forsake his evil companions and come over with those who are in the right.

Mr. Schofield is just a young man and we feel sure he will be elected to this office in Altoona. We wish him unbounded success in his election.

500,000,000 Feet of Logs to Cut.

The Lock Haven Democrat of Thursday, prints the following interesting lumber item:

W O. Knapp, formerly of Salona, but later of Gleasonton, and J. H Hively, of Williamsport, have contracted with the Deemer Manufacturing company, to cut and deliver to a mill at Deemer, Miss., 500,000,000 feet of logs. It is expected that it will take them fifteen years to complete the job.

Mr. Knapp has been for several years engaged in getting out pulp wood for the New York and Pennsylvania company, of this city at Gleasonton, and has had many years' experience in the woods. He and his family will leave for the South on Monday.

Class Rush at State College.

The Pennsylvania State College, so far as sports were concerned, as in addition to the state—Geneva foot ball game the annual class rush between the Sophomores and Freshmen took place, in which the latter were doubly victorious. The Freshmen, who number over four hundred, lined up in front of the main building and started their march down across the campus to the main street in the borough. Notwithstanding the fact that they were fiercely opposed by the Sophs the class of '11 marched undauntedly on until they reached the street. Then, just to show the upper classmen that they had the right kind of college pluck and spirit they marched around and up the main driveway past the engineering building to in front of the main building and with a yell of defiance again marched down the campus to the street. Hats were smashed, clothes torn and quite a number of students knocked out but none were seriously injured.

The following appeared in the North American:

State College, Pa.—With the beginning of the school year at the agricultural college the raw members of the Freshman class are being put through a course of sprouts—in other words, they are being trimmed according to the latest rules of pruning.

Hazing at the college varies somewhat from the prevailing customs at the larger universities. Peanut rolling, abbreviated dress and other nonsensical stunts are frowned upon as savoring of mollycoddleism.

It was only the other day that a bunch of Freshmen was captured and taken to a large field, in which a few bucking and wild colts were grazing. The boys were tied to the backs of the animals, and, to encourage the colts to do their best, firecrackers were exploded.

Not since the strike of the students two years ago was there so much excitement, and the spectators all agreed that the stunts performed by the victims put to shame any Wild West performance ever given.

It is said that the next batch of Freshmen will be run through a threshing machine, and the affair will wind up with a thrilling chariot race, in which harrows and stone sleds will be used. In this way the wheat will be separated from the chaff, and the unfit students will be pulverized.

National Guard and its Doings.

The Ninth regiment left Wilkes-Barre for Jamestown Tuesday, accompanied by General Dougherty and his staff. The regiment will be the escort for Governor Stuart on Pennsylvania Day. It will return via Washington and will spend one day in that city giving the men an opportunity to see the city. The trip is expected to occupy one week.

The Frankford arsenal has begun the manufacture of the Spitzer bullet and it is only a question of a short time until it is put in general use throughout the army. The arsenal is now working night and day to get a quantity of the new ammunition loaded.

The Spitzer bullet is a sharp pointed missile which has been proven more accurate and superior to the bullet now in use. It was ammunition of this kind which the American team used last month when it broke the record in the Palma match for the International military championship.

It is expected that the next National math and possibly the next pennsylvania State matches will be shot with the new Springfield rifle. The Government expects to be able to issue to the states a sufficient quantity of the new rifles to enable them to equip their regimental teams.

Mounted officers in the army will hereafter use the gauntlet instead of the leather glove.

Paid Mortgage and Interest.

The congregation of the Bellefonte Methodist church have good reason to congratulate not only themselves but each other because the burden of debt which for some time has hung like a pall over the church has been lifted. Some time ago the congregation paid off a debt for $235, and on Tuesday of this week a mortgage for $2,000 with $96. 50 interest was paid and the only obligation now standing against the church is an account of $1,500, and it has been amply provided for, so that the church property can be considered free of debt.

Deafness Cannot be Cured.

By local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free.

When Heintzleman Went to School.

George Heintzleman was a prominent personage at the recent reunion of the boys in blue on Grange Park. He is a native of Harris township, and in 185[illegible] when he was a lad of about sixteen years he went west with his parents. On reaching manhood he wandered to the south and when the war broke out he was below the Mason and Dixon line. The south needed men of the Heintzleman type and he was pressed into service. On the first opportunity Heintzleman left the southern ranks and enlisted in an Illinois regiment serving to the end of the war.

At the close of this service he located in northern Iowa, engaged in farming prospered, and is now living retired with his wife, a western lady, is enjoying the fruits of his labors.

Prior to 1854 Heintzleman attended school at Linden Hall, being a pupil of whom the birch was occasionally laid lengthwise and diagonally. On one occasion he and a number of his schoolchums barred the teacher, Thomas Holihan, from the school house. Holihan was a man of great determination, and made every effort to gain admittance through both force and strategy, but failed. Finally a flag of truce was hoisted, and the imposed conditions of surrender were that the entire school be treated to ginger bread. Holihan sent Heintzleman and his mate to Davy Young's at Boalsburg, for the ginger bread. The delicacy was carefully stowed in a home-spun sack, and on a stick on the shoulders of the lads the burden was carried to the school house, between two and three miles distant. Before the school room was reached, the boys were drenched by a rain, and the ginger cake were flattened to a mass of dough. The division among the scholars was made by Mr. Holihan, and how much each received can be told by the living pupils, each of whom is now old enough to speak for him or herself: D. J. Shannon Boal, Capt. George M. Boal, Henry Potter, Centre Hall, John Davis, Miss Lizzie Davis, Fergus Potter, Wm. Ross, John Ross, Linden Hall; John Potter, Milesburg; 'Squire A. W. Murray, Boalsburg; John Murray, Lemont; Col. John Stuart, State College; Enoch Hastings, George Hastings, Charles Eckenroth, Bellefonte.

Smiling a Cure-All.

Have you tried smiling? It is the latest remedy for all the ills of the flesh and the spirit, and it is cheap. All that necessary is to do to try the new "smile cure," which London doctors are recommending, is to lift the corners of the mouth slightly by means of the facial muscles, expanding the lips and showing the teeth. Practice this before the looking glass night and morning until the smile has worn in and the beneficial results will be forthcoming, it is seriously asserted. There is no state of affairs so discouraging that it can't be bettered by smiling over it, and there is no joy in life so joyous that it will not spread a little wider over the surface of the globe with the coaxing of a smile.

YOUNG MEN ENLIST

Enthusiastic Recruits Among Hosts of Republicanism.

NATIONAL FIGHT COMING

Contest at the Pennsylvania Election This Fall Regarded as Skirmish of the Great Presidential Battle of Next Year.

[Special Correspondence.]

Harrisburg, Sept. 24.

A significant feature of the gathering of Republican clubmen in this city this week is the presence of so many young Republicans, many of them to be first voters at the coming election.

The activity of young men in the ranks of the State League of Republican clubs in this campaign has been the subject of general comment, and the party leaders who have been fighting the battles of Republicanism for years are elated over the accession of so many enthusiastic recruits.

The popularity of the nominee for state treasurer, the fact that he is, himself ,a staunch member of the State League of Clubs, and that his candidacy typifies the desires of the men who seek to advance the cause of Republicanism's highest ideals, may, in a measure, account for the gratifying interest taken in the present state campaign by the young men, both of the cities and the counties of Pennsylvania.

Mr. Sheatz's career in public life is calculated to inspire the youth of this commonwealth.

The story of his labors as a lad in the great Baldwin Locomotive works in Philadelphia and his subsequent success as a business man, his nomination for the state legislature in an independent district in the Quaker city, his splendid record as a lawmaker at Harrisburg, which led to his nomination by the Republican state convention by a unanimous vote for the office of state treasurer, has been studied by the young Republicans of Pennsylvania, who have enlisted in the campaign to bring about his election by an unprecedented majority for an off year in November next.

Presidential Battle Coming.

The fact that next year will be presidential year may also account for the interest taken in the Republican party organization this fall by the younger element.

Colonel Wesley R. Andrews, chairman of the Republican state committee, reports that the chairmen of the several county committees find that the interest is being taken in national politics this year, and that every one is looking forward to the coming Republican convention.

Pennsylvania will have 68 votes in that national gathering, the largest delegation, save one, that will sit in the convention, and the voice of Pennsylvania, as in the past, it is predicted, will again be potential in the national councils of the party.

In order that Pennsylvania shall maintain her proud place as the keystone of the Republican national arch, it is recognized by the young men who have rallied to the party colors in the present campaign that the vote at the coming election must show a pronounced Republican majority.

It is true that the opposition is demoralized, and is without an issue.

The danger to the Republican forces lies in over confidence and the apathy that frequently follows the absence of an aggressive opposition.

The Capitol Grafting Issue.

Nominee for treasurer, Mr. Sheatz, has reason to be proud of the ovation given him here this week by the clubmen gathered from every section of the state.

While in this city, Mr. Sheatz had several conferences with Governor Stuart. They talked over the state capitol graft cases. It is recognized that the Democrats lost their only issue when Attorney General Todd proceeded against the men who were named in the report of the legislative probers as responsible for the looting of the state treasury through irregularities attending the construction of the capitol.

With the knowledge that the pledges of the Republican party are being fulfilled, and that after the thorough probing of the capitol job, the Republican state administration is proceeding to prosecute all who had a hand in the affair, the Democrats are absolutely deprived of an opportunity to play the capitol scandal to advance their political interests.

Sandy's Criticism.

A young Scotchman went to a London school of music, where he learned to play the violoncello fairly well. On his return to his native village he gathered his friends together to hear his new instrument. When he had played one or two tunes, he looked up expectantly. After a slight pause his old grandfather spoke.

"Eh, maun," he said, "it's a maircy there's na smell wi' it!"—Liverpool Mercury.

Demonstration.

Grace—And did you ever propose to a girl in a canoe?

Fred—Yes, and I'll never do it again. The girl jumped at my proposal and upset the boat.—Harper's Weekly.

All the Difference.

"Society dropped the De Lacys because they had a skeleton in their closet, I understand?"

"No—because they didn't keep it there."—Cleveland Leader.

FRANK B. KELLOGG.

One of the Foremost of the Federal Government's "Trust Busting" Corps.

It is a heavy task that falls upon Frank B. Kellogg, the chief counselor for the government in the case of the United States against the Standard Oil company, which was called a few days ago in New York before ex-Judge Feriss as referee. But Mr. Kellogg is used to the discharge of important duties. It was he who conducted the historic examination of E. H. Harriman before the interstate commerce commission in the inquiry made by that body into the operation of the Pacific roads and the Harriman system. It was this inquiry which developed the alleged looting of the Chicago and Alton and provoked Harriman's celebrated declaration that if the laws permitted he would try to control every railroad in the United States. If the government wins in the suit for the dissolution of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, the parent of the so called trust's many subcompanies, Mr. Kellogg will come in for a large share of the glory. He is a resident of St. Paul, is a lawyer rather than a politician and stands high in his profession. He was a government delegate to the universal congress of lawyers and jurists at the Louisiana Purchase exposition in St. Louis in 1904. Some years ago, when the steel trust went into Minnesota to secure deposits of iron ore, it selected Mr. Kellogg as its attorney. There is a story that he was then paid $15,000 a year to look after steel interests in Minnesota. That is bigger pay than the federal government gives the men who do its trust busting work, and thus there is more glory than money in working against the big corporations. Mr. Kellogg was in New York one day when the Morgan-Hill interests were busy with the organization of the Northern Securities company, and the St. Paul lawyer was called on by the great railway financiers to do something by way of influencing politics in his state in the interests of the steel trust and its railway allies. Mr. Kellogg replied that he was a lawyer and not a politician, and he was never afterward asked to do any work of that kind. He was counsel for the government in the paper trust cases.

PORTUGAL'S CROWN PRINCE.

Amiable Young Man Who May Succeed to a Crown.

Luiz Filippe, duke of Braganza and crown prince of Portugal, has become a figure of interest since the crisis in Portuguese affairs and the conflict between the monarch and parliament, involving a situation threatening the very existence of the throne.

The prince was born in 1887 and has been well educated. He speaks several languages and in general has conducted himself in a manner to win the approbation of his future subjects. He went to England for the coronation of King Edward, and at one of the royal dinner parties which all the princes then in London attended all the men were smoking with the exception of the crown prince of Portugal.

LUIZ-FILIPPE, DUKE OF BRAGANZA.

"Won't you have a cigar?" some one asked.

"No, I thank you," smiled the future king, without a trace either of self consciousness or embarrassment. "I am too small yet."

DRESS OF THE ESKIMO.

Made by the Women From the Skins of Northern Animals.

The chief material of the clothing of the Eskimo is the skin of the reindeer, which is used in various stages of peltage or tanning. Fine, short haired summer skins, especially those of does and fawns, are used for making dress garments and underclothes. The heaviest winter skins furnish extra warm jackets for cold weather. The white spotted skins of the tame Siberian reindeer are especially valued for full dress jackets.

The skins of the white mountain sheep, white and blue fox, wolf, dog, ermine and lynx are sometimes made into clothing. Underjackets of eider duck skins are often pressed into service. Sealskin dressed with the hair on is used only for breeches and boots, and for those rarely. Of late years drilling and calico have been introduced into the makeup of some of the minor garments.

The dress of the men consists of a loose hooded frock without opening except at the neck and wrists. This reaches just over the hips and very rarely to midthigh, where it is cut off square and usually confined by a girdle at the waist. Under this garment is worn a similar one of lighter skin and sometimes without a hood. The thighs are clad in one or two pairs of tight fitting knee breeches, rather loose, but fitted to the shape of the leg. They are very low in front, but are much higher behind, sometimes as high as the small of the back. They are held in place by a girdle or thong around the waist and are usually fastened below the knee over the boots with a drawstring.

On the legs and feet are worn, first, a pair of long deerskin stockings, with the hair inside, then slippers of tanned sealskin, in the bottom which is spread a layer of whalebone shavings and outside a pair of close fitting boots, held in place by a string around the ankle, which reaches above the knee and ends with a rough edge covered by the breeches. Dress boots often end in an ornamental border, with drawstring just below the knee. The boots are of reindeer skin, with white sealskin soles for winter and dry weather, but in summer waterproof boots of white whaleskin are worn. Overshoes of the same material, reaching just above the ankles, are sometimes worn over the winter boots.

The women wear tight fitting deerskin pantaloons, with the hair next the skin, and outside of these a similar pair made of the skins from deer legs, with the hair out, and having soles of sealskin, but no ankle strings. The women's pantaloons, like those of the men, are fastened with a girdle just above the hips. It appears that they do not stay up very well, as the women are continually hitching them up and tightening their girdles, like some old sailor.

Until they reach manhood the boys wear pantaloons like the women, but their jackets are cut just like those of the men.

The well to do Eskimos generally own several complete suits of clothes and present a neat appearance when not engaged in dirty work. The poorer classes wear one suit for all occasions until it becomes shabby. New clothes are seldom put on till winter. The outer frock is not often worn in the iglu, or hut home, being usually taken off before entering the room.

At present there is no such thing as an Eskimo tailor, for the women of each Eskimo household usually make the garments of all the members of the family. Not only this, but the Eskimos are extremely conservative in the matter of changes in the style of their raiment and respond very slowly to the modernizing influences in this particular which have reached their neighborhood.

Convict Regiments.

At the beginning of the eighteenth century the British army had a bad reputation at home, and it was very difficult to get recruits for it. For this reason it was officially proposed to find the men by an impressment falling on "any sturdy beggar, fortune teller or the like idle, unknown, suspected fellow in the parish; or, if there be none such, then any one that has already been in a gaol or before a justice of the peace for his idle, disorderly life." The advice was acted upon. Debtors were released from prison on promising to join the army or the navy, criminals were pardoned on the same terms, and persons with no visible means of subsistence were marched off to death and glory. The system worked out better than might have been expected. In the peninsular war, for instance, three new regiments were composed entirely of convicts, and one made for itself an illustrious name.

Pies and Pie Crust.

A good way to prevent the juice from running out of fruit pie is to insert a funnel shaped piece of paper in the top crust. This will allow the steam to escape while the pie is baking. Many people sprinkle the top of a juicy pie with flour before putting on the top crust. Another good suggestion is to use minute tapioca instead of flour for the purpose.

Lady Curzon's Discovery.

The late Lady Curzon is said to have told some American friends that very early in her married life she discovered that Lord Curzon liked to be "dressed for." So she resolved that he should never come to dinner without finding her in a garb a little different from what other people had seen her in. "It is not much trouble," she "and it pleases him."

Heart Strength

Heart Strength, or Heart Weakness, means Nerve Strength, or Nerve Weakness—nothing more. Positively, not one weak heart in a hundred is, in itself, actually diseased. It is almost always a hidden tiny little nerve that really is all at fault. This obscure nerve—the Cardiac, or Heart Nerve—simply needs, and must have, more power, more stability, more controlling, more governing strength. Without that the Heart must continue to fail, and the stomach and kidneys also have these same controlling nerves.

This clearly explains why, as a medicine, Dr. Shoop's Restorative has in the past done so much for weak and ailing Hearts. Dr. Shoop first sought the cause of all this painful, palpitating, suffocating heart distress. Dr. Shoop's Restorative—this popular prescription—is alone directed to these weak and wasting nerve centers. It builds! It strengthens; it offers real, genuine heart help.

If you would have strong Hearts, strong digestion, Strengthen these Nerves—re-establish them as needed, with

Thomas A. Edison, the great American inventor, says "Fully eighty per cent of the illness of mankind comes from eating improper food or too much food; people are inclined to over indulge themselves". This is where indigestion finds its beginning in nearly every case. The stomach can do just so much work and no more, and when you overload it, or when you eat the wrong kind of food, the digestive organs cannot possibly do the work demanded of them. It is at such times that the stomach needs help; it demands help, and warns you by headaches, belching, sour stomach, nausea and indigestion. You should attend to this at once by taking something that will actually do the work for the stomach. Kodol will do this. It is a combination of natural digestants and vegetable acids and contains the same juices found in a healthy stomach. It is pleasant to take. It digests what you eat Sold by Green's Pharmacy.

STRONG Again

is what Mrs. Lucy Stovall, of Tilton, Ga., said after taking Kodol for Dyspepsia. Hundreds of other weak women are being restored to perfect health by this remedy. YOU may be well if you will take it.

Indigestion causes nearly all the sickness that women have. It deprives the system of nourishment and the delicate organs peculiar to women suffer—weaken, and become diseased.

Kodol For Dyspepsia

enables the stomach and digestive organs to digest and assimilate all of the wholesome food that may be eaten. It nourishes the body, and rebuilds the weak organs restoring health and strength. Kodol relieves indigestion, constipation, dyspepsia, sour risings, belching, heartburn and all stomach disorders.

Leah Kleschna in Real Life.

Until the production of "Leah Kleschna," the girl burglar was a stranger to the stage. Playwrights had found fruitful subjects in thieves of the male sex, from the Spike Hennesseys of the melodrama to the gentlemanly robbers of the "Raffles" sort. In "Leah Kleschna" there is given to the theatre a woman who gained her livlihood by the aid of the jimmy and the dark lantern. Being thus a novelty and the central figure of an unusual play, it is not surprising that Leah Kleschna should have attracted much attention.

Though Leah Kleschna is now to the stage, her prototypes have been, and are, sufficiently frequent in real life. Histories of crime record many instances in which women have been burglars. To police of all great cities the woman burglar is a more or less familiar type. She is seldom found in the prison records, however, and she is harder to catch than the man burglar. The quick wit and intuition natural to her sex have led her out of many a trap which the best detectives have carefully set for her sex. Sex has helped her, too, in crisis when publicity would have meant scandal for victim. It is said, furthermore, that often women like Leah Kleschna see the error of their ways and find obscurity in reformation.

Leah Kleschna is a girl who has been brought up to consider thievery a calling as worthy of pursuit as any other. Her training she has had from her father, a man of ability, intellect and courage, qualities that would have brought his success in any walk of life. His view of his trade is epitomized in his remark to Leah when she hesitates to attempt an exploit he has planned.

"The profession you're in," he says, "stands high in my estimation. Hundreds of men are playing the same game and calling it business principles. We fancy fellows go the straight road, that's all."

With these ideas instilled in her from childhood, and with a nature that inherited her father's brains and self-reliance, Leah has become an active, alert and attractive girl, with a dormant moral sense. It is upon the awaking of this moral sense that the play has been built. A man who, unknown to himself, has been exerting a good influence over her, discovers her in the act of robbing him. He is a believer in the Tolstoi theory that moral suasion, not penal servitude, is the right treatment for criminals and he puts this theory into practice by letting her go free. His sympathy and pity and his nobility of character rouse in the girl the instinct for good that has been slumbering in her. She gives up her old life and associations, even to renouncing her father, and goes back to labor as a peasant, as her mother had. That she loves the man makes her repentance easier, but "Leah Kleschna" is a play, and not an attempt to prove a theory that is incidental to the plot.

REAL LEAH KLESCHNA.

That Leah Kleschna exist in real life is best proven by the fact that the playwright received his idea for the character from an incident reported in a Paris paper. In this case a girl who had been arrested with others of a gang of housebreakers confessed that she had been trained by them from childhood to assist in their depredations, and was able because of her sex to do much that a man could not have done without exciting suspicion. This girl figured in the news of that day, but was not heard of again.

Chicago has had a number of women burglars, but as a rule, they have been of the lower strata of thieves, and have not played for big stakes, as do Kleschna and his daughter. Fifteen years ago residents of the South Side were alarmed by a series of burglaries in which a mysterious woman figured. The first inkling the police had that a woman was concerned in the robberies was due to the vanity of the woman herself. The robbery was committed during the early evening, when the owner of the house and his wife were at the theatre and their servant was also out. The burglars had ample time to ransack the house, and the fair member of the gang found leisure, while going through a dressing table to make use of a comb belonging to the mistress of the house. The comb, not being of value, was left behind. To it the clung several long brown hairs. The victim of the robbery happened to be a brunette. The detective looked out for brown haired girls after that, but this girl either dyed her hair or sought fresh fields of labor, for she was never caught.

What Ails You?

Do you feel weak, tired, despondent, have frequent headaches, coated tongue, bitter or bad taste in morning, "heartburn," belching of gas, acid risings in throat after eating, stomach gnaw or burn, foul breath, dizzy spells, poor or variable appetite, nausea at times and kindred symptoms?

If you have any considerable number of the above symptoms you are suffering from biliousness, torpid liver with indigestion, or dyspepsia. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is made up of the most valuable medicinal principles known to medical science for the permanent cure of such abnormal conditions. It is a most efficient liver invigorator, stomach tonic, bowel regulator and nerve strengthener.

The "Golden Medical Discovery" is not a patent medicine or secret nostrum, a full list of its ingredients being printed on its bottle-wrapper and attested under oath. A glance at its formula will show that it contains no alcohol, or harmful habit-forming drugs. It is a fluid extract made with pure, triple-refined glycerine, of proper strength, from the roots of the following native American forest plants, viz., Golden Seal root, Stone root, Black Cherry bark, Queen's root, Bloodroot, and Mandrake root.

The following leading medical authorities, among a host of others, extol the foregoing roots for the cure of just such ailments as the above symptoms indicate: Prof. R. Bartholow, M. D., of Jefferson Med. College, Phila.; Prof. H. C. Wood, M. D., of Univ. of Pa.; Prof. Edwin M. Hale, M. D., of Hahnemann Med. College, Chicago; Prof. John King, M. D., Author of American Dispensatory; Prof. Jno. M. Scudder, M. D., Author of Specific Medicines; Prof. Laurence Johnson, M. D., Med. Dept. Univ. of N. Y.; Prof. Finley Ellingwood, M. D., Author of Materia Medica and Prof. in Bennett Medical College, Chicago. Send name and address on Postal Card to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., and receive free booklet giving extracts from writings of all the above medical authors and many others endorsing, in the strongest possible terms, each and every ingredient of which "Golden Medical Discovery" is composed.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets regulate and invigorate stomach, liver and bowels. They may be used in conjunction with "Golden Medical Discovery" if bowels are much constipated. They're tiny and sugar-coated.

Georfiia and Her Hyprocrisy.

Undoubtedly one of the most miserable shams in the history of State legislation has recently been accomplished by Georgia.

Great stress has been laid upon the fact and it is clothed with importance, since it tends to show the emotional signs of the times, that Georgia has jumped from local option to Prohibition. Now by law liquor cannot be made, or sold or given away, and even the drug stores are prohibited from supplying to the sick or the dying any stimulant with the exception of pure alcohol. If a physician finds that champagne, now so frequently used in the sick room and in hospitals, or brandy is necessary the law demands that the patent shall be rather than the liquor prescription shall be filled at the drug store.

The crafty politicians who are riding into power and graft on the top wave of this prohibtion sentiment in the South in their zeal even stuck at religion of our Lord and Saviour, since the law forbids the administration of wine in the churches in connection with the holy sacrament.

But how came Georgia to enact such a sweeping interdict? There is always one side to a story and this one has two. To pass prohibition it had to be based upon race prejudice. Liquor was too good for the "nigger" and his foster brother, the poor white trash. Stop it and "nigger" crime against womanhood will cease was the argument, and it caught the minds of emotional and thoughtless men and women.

But Prohibition could not be passed in Georgia either on moral or temperance grounds which has been claimed. It was only passed upon the promise to rob the "nigger" of his right vote. It passed one day by a vote of ten to one, and mark you the very next day the legislature passed an act disfranchising the negro. Here was a questionable political deal and a bargain that was manipulated and accomplished by the politicians both within and without the church.

Now mark again the subsequent action of this same Georgia Legislature. Within a week following its hysterical adoption of prohibition by a vote almost unanimous it passed a club act taxing every social club which dispenses liquors to its members three hundred dollars.

And the politicians now smile while the deceived clergyman and his church member who were used in the drama to rob the negro of his vote are measuring the breadth and the depth of their bunco. But the hotels do not smile, nor does the farmer who all his life has been making his own peach brandy which he drinks with the addition of a drop of honey.

Upon the first of January, 1908, the bar of every hatel must be closed—even the rooms as to liquors, the drug stores save as to alcohol.

But around the corner, or at the next cross-road will be the club. Home life next year will not be known to Georgia, in so far as the men are concerned, and it will soon reach the club life of the women.

How easy to form a club. Rent a room, chage each member fifty cents for his key. He takes in his friends, pays for the drinks, and afterward divides the expense. This is not gentlemanly, but it is the pace set by hypocrisy.

Every "wet" member of the Legislature voted for the $300.00 club tax bill; every "dry" member did likewise. Why? Because they thought the negroes could not form clubs and pay a tax of $300.00. But we shall see!

In Georgia since 1865 they have advanced more than the white race, hence the jealousy, the prosecution, a State's hypocrisy.

"Puck" recently published a fine cartoon on its front page. It was the fat man of Georgia, raised on his liquor, drinking to the lean man from Maine. Georgia was imbibing from a bottle marked "Lemon Phospha e."—the man from Maine, tall, lean and lank' was imbiding from a bottle marked "Gold Tea." And thus hypocrisy, through the laws assailing personal liberty, extends from Maine to Georgia. xxxx.

WE CANNOT SAY TOO MUCH FOR PE-RU-NA

These Women Say, in Substance, That Before They Took Pe-ru-na They Were Miserable.

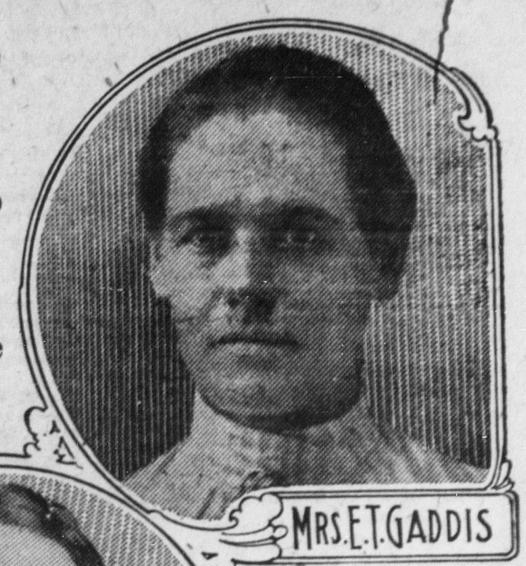
They Were Weak and Wretched.

After Taking Pe-ru-na They Were Restored to Health and Usefulness.

This Is the Whole Story In a Nutshell.

If Pe-ru-na Can Do Such Wonders For These Women It Can Do the Same For You.

The housewife is the one who is best able to judge of the relative merits of family medicines. It is she that knows the many uses of Peruna in the family. It is upon her testimonial that chiefly depends the popularity which Peruna enjoys.



MRS. E. T. GADDIS

Mrs. E. T. Gaddis, Marion, N. C., writes:

"Before I commenced to take Peruna I could not do any hard work without suffering great pain. I took Peruna and Manalin, and can say with pleasure they have done more for me than any other medicine I have ever taken. Now I am as well as ever, I do all my own work and it never hurts me at all. I think Peruna is a great medicine for womankind."

From Grateful Women.

"I was troubled with suppressed and painful menstruation. I took Peruna according to your directions, and now I am well."—Mrs. James Eighmey, Grape, Mich.

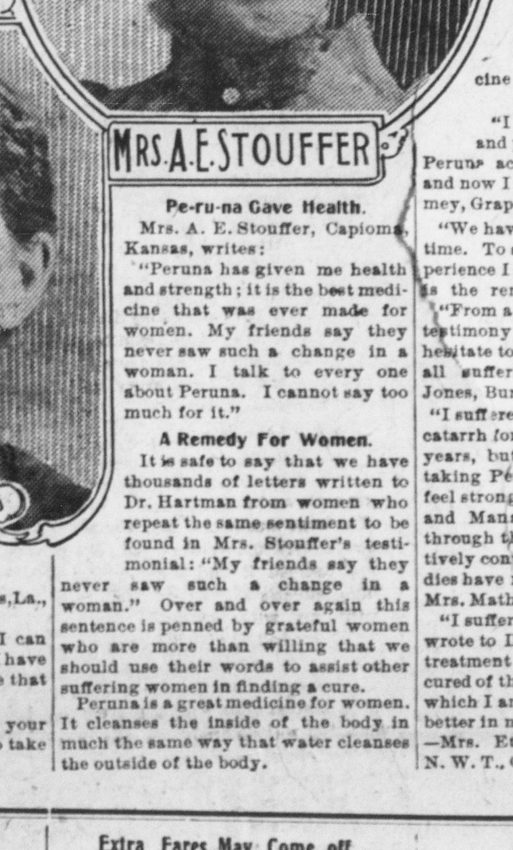
"We have been using Peruna for some time. To speak from a standpoint of experience I can candidly say that Peruna is the remedy for female weakness.

"From a personal test and from the testimony of many others I shall not hesitate to recommend it, especially to all suffering women."—Mrs. M. F. Jones, Burning Springs, Ky.

"I suffered from catarrh for many years, but since taking Peruna I feel strong and well. As I used Peruna and Manalin while I was passing through the change of life, I am positively convinced your beneficial remedies have relieved me of all my ills."—Mrs. Mathilde Richter, Doniphan, Neb.

PE-RU-NA FOR PELVIC DISEASES.

"I suffered with pelvic catarrh until I wrote to Dr. Hartman, and after taking treatment as he advised, I can say I am cured of this most trying affliction, for which I am truly thankful. I never felt better in my life and can highly recommend Peruna."—Mrs. Etta Booker, Dundurn, Sask, N. W. T., Can.



MRS. A. E. STOUFFER

Pe-ru-na Gave Health.

Mrs. A. E. Stouffer, Capioma, Kansas, writes:

"Peruna has given me health and strength; it is the best medicine that was ever made for women. My friends say they never saw such a change in a woman. I talk to every one about Peruna. I cannot say too much for it."

A Remedy For Women.

It is safe to say that we have thousands of letters written to Dr. Hartman from women who repeat the same sentiment to be found in Mrs. Stouffer's testimonial: "My friends say they never saw such a change in a woman." Over and over again this sentence is penned by grateful women who are more than willing that we should use their words to assist other suffering women in finding a cure.

Peruna is a great medicine for women. It cleanses the inside of the body in much the same way that water cleanses the outside of the body.

MRS. CAROLINE SUNDHEIMER

Stronger Than for Years.

Mrs. Caroline Sundheimer, Clarks, La., writes:

"I am feeling quite well now. I can work again and am stronger than I have been for years, and I do believe that Peruna saved my life.

"I am very thankful to you for your advice. I will advise all I can to take your medicine."

Don't Allow Familiarties.

There is a most objectionable phrase much in vogue at present. It is the word "rough house."

I asked a girl what it meant, and her answer was, "Oh, it means having a sort rough and tumble time, such as pulling a girl's hair, snatching at a boy's necktie, or any sort of noisy fun."

What it really means is that the girls are rude and familiar with the boys, and vice versa.

A well-brought-up, modest girl would no more dream of indulging in that sort of pastime than she would of standing on her head.

Any girl can receive a certain kind of attention if she allows the boys to treat her with familiarity.

Behind her back they laugh at her, and if they saw their sisters allowing men to behave toward them as does this girl they would be furious.

What a man most admires in a girl is modest and purity and gentleness.

If he can treat her as he would another man he has no respect for her.

He wants to look upon her as something so pure and good that she must be treated with the greatest of chivalry and respect.

I have watched a group of young people with great interest this summer.

There were four or five girls and as many boys. The spent the evenings on the hotel veranda and I think the word "rough house" described a good many of their gambols.

There was one shy-looking, pretty girl who held herself daintily aloof from any rough fun.

You never saw her wondering off alone with any boy. She was merry and ready for any wholesome fun, but no boy dared take a liberty with her.

Often I heard them say: "Oh, you must not act that way toward Mary; she won't stand for it."

With the other girls they could be as rough and familiar as they liked.

But when with Mary they were different boys, and every boy in the group liked her best of all the girls.

Be gentle and dignified. Some ill-bred girls and boys may accuse you of being prudish, but never mind. You could not have a higher compliment than being called a prude by that sort of person.

Men and boys of the right sort will see that you are a modest, well-bred girl, and from them you will receive the honor and courtesy that is due to you.

Great Play Coming

Harrison Grey Fiske's "Leah Kleschna" company, that comes to the Garman Opera House on Tuesday Oct. 15, has been playing in a number of towns hereabout and is said everywhere to be the best attraction seen in years, if ever before. There is no misrepresentation about the preformance, which is tremendously dramatic and splendidly acted. Harrison Grey Fiske, under whose management the play was produced when Mrs. Fiske acted it for six months in New York and for three seasons in other cities, is also the manager of this company. The quality of the performance of "Leah Kleschna" shows what a difference it makes when one of the big metropolitan managers sends a play out under his own name. He cannot afford to have his reputation suffer by an inferior attraction. The company is just as good as those seen in New York, and all the scenery, costumes and properties are carried. Mr. Fiske is the first manager to send companies to the one-night stand and if other managers would follow his example they would get just as crowded houses as in the big cities. No one who wants to see a really first class performance of a thrilling modern play should miss "Leah Kleschna." The sale of seats will open Saturday. Seats $1.50, $1.00, 75, 50 and 35 cents.

Office of Campaign Paper Blown up.

The office of the Tribue Publishing company, at Uniontown, was blown up with dynamite Tuesday morning. About ten days ago a daily edition known as the Citizen, a campaign sheet was issued, to be published until election, upholding the Citizen-Democratic-Prohibition fusion ticket. The editorials in the publication have been attacking some of the candidates of the opposition, and saloons have been severely handled. A stick of dynamite had been placed in the cylinder of the engine, and the charge fired with a fuse from outside the building.

Academy Defeats Indiana Normal.

The Bellefonte Academy inaugurated athletic relations with Indiana Normal school Monday in a very successful manner by defeating their strong foot ball team by the score of 4—0. Captain Pantall very cleverly kicked the goal from the field in the first half. The teams went at each other from the very first blow of the whistle with a dash and spirit that made the contest one of the closest and most exciting games ever played on the State College grounds. An excursion party of at least 100 people went to the College to cheer the Academy to victory. The College boys attended the game in large numbers and enjoyed it very much every member on the Academy team played a star game.

Miss Mary Ann Miller Dead

Thursday at 4 o'clock the spirit of Miss Mary Ann Miller of Pleasant Gap, passed into the great beyond. Miss Miller's death was very sudden although she had not been in the best of health lately, but able to be around her home and help do the housework.

She was an earnest christian maiden lady and has been a member of the Friends Society of Bellefonte for many years. She resided with her sister at the Gap and their home was always filled with an atmosphere of christian love and fellowship. She leaves to mourn her death three brothers and three sisters, Mr. Abraham Miller, Mr. Isaac Miller and Mr. Robert Miller of Bellefonte, Mrs. Jane Russell of Aveline, Kas. Miss Tamazine T. Miller of Philadelphia and Miss Eliza Miller with whom she made her home at Pleasant Gap.

Miss Miller was 62 years 10 months and 11 days old. She was buried on Saturday afternoon. The interment were made in the Friends graveyard on Qurker Hill.

Be Charitable.

Never pass final judgement on anyone from first impressions. We are all such creatures in limitation. Eyes are faulty, and elements of character which include us, often more than compensate for the faults we see. Look again, look deeper. You will be surprised at the number of stars in the night sky if you look long enough. Most people have more virtues than are seen by a snap vision. Be charitable and patient. Do not spoil your world by peopling it with imaginary beings. Welcome the good in humankind, and the good in others will reward your quest.

Married.

A quiet wedding was solemnized 1st Wednesday evening Oct. 2nd at the M. E. Parsonage at Pleasant Gap when Pastor Durkes united in marriage Mr. Bruce Baney of Bellefonte and Miss Ester Ellen Tate of Pleasant Gap. They are a bright young couple and they will make their home in Bellefonte

BELLEFONTE'S OPENING SEASON.

The Stores Crowded with Ladies to See and Buy the Latest in Millinery.

The Fall Millinery opening of Miss Donachy—Joseph Brothers & Company and Katz and Co. were patronized better this year than ever before, the stores were crowded and many ladies bought these beautiful pattern hats which sold at real nice prices. All these stores advertized their opening in the Daily News and of course that is the reason they did so large a business. This is Miss Donachy's first year in the business and we are pleased to say that she sold most every one of her beautiful pattern hats.

Nearly all the hats are large and round or oval, in shape. Among the new tones are delft blue, cherry brandy, leather tan, terre cotta and snuff brown.

The large mushroom hats are to continue in style this season. Dame Fashion has so decreed it and her humble but willing subjects will accept the decree. Mushrooms with the same hang-over brim all around or with the brims turned up and plenty of trimmings.

In contrast to those previously worn the new mushroom hats will not have any bands, but will set firmly on the head. The trimmings tower mountain high, the novelties being fancy feathers and flowers The feathers are aigrette plumes, queer ragged feathers of the goura. The ribbon, velvet and feathers all stand straight up.

Every conceivable color is used. The newest things in flower decorations are morning glories, flags, pansies and magnolias, in all colors.

The fur hats shown are especially pretty Some are made entirely of fur, while others have a fur edging. The toques are larger than those hitherto worn.

While many women were feasting their eyes on the elaborate millinery, others attended the fall opening of woman's suits and cloaks. Nearly all of the coats and wraps shown affected the Chinese or Japanese stylee. This was especially marked in the large flowing kimono sleeves and the heavy and elaborate Oriental braiding.

In both wraps and suits the bat's-wing and kimono sleeve are the most conspicuous. Opera cloaks are not trimmed as extensively as before. They are full and have a draping effect. In the velours and velvet coats braid is extensively used as trimmings.

In fancy costumes, soft and clinging materials are used. The elaborate gowns have trains with border effect, mostly Greek design, at the foot lines. The newest shades are dahlia, violet, plum tones and the light pastel shades. The new blue is the Copenhagen blue.

The street tailormades have short skirts and long coats. The material is fancy mixtures and stripes. A novelty in newness is the bound tailor edge.

Sell Dr. Howard's Specific at Half-price and Guarantee a Cure.

"It isn't often that I have faith enough in the medicine put up by other people to be willing to offer to refund the money if it does not cure," said C. M. Parrish to a Republican man who dropped into his store, "but specific for the cure of constipation and dyspepsia on that basis.

"The Dr. Howard Company, in order to get a quick introductory sale, authorizes me to sell their regular fifty-cent bottles at half price, 25 cents, and although I have sold a lot of it, and have guaranteed every package, not one has been brought back unsatisfactory.

"One great advantage of this specific," he continued, "is its small dose and convenient form. There are sixty doses in one vial that can be carried in the vest pocket or purse, and every one has more medicinal power than a big pill or tablet or a tumbler of mineral water.

"I am still selling the specific at half-price, although I can not tell how long I shall be able to do so, and any one who is subject to constipation, sick headache dizziness, liver trouble, indigestion, or a general played-out condition, ought to take advantage of this chance. You can tell your readers if they are not satisfied with specific they can come back to my store and I will cheerfully refund your money."

Judge Swooned Reading First Death Sentence.

Pittsburg, October, 6.—Judge Joseph M. Swearing swooned in Criminal court Saturday morning after having read his first death sentence, that of Norris B. Holmes of East Pittsburg who killed his sweetheart, Nancy Miller, last March 27. The convicted murderer had made a threat that all he wanted before he died was to fix District attorney Goehring, by whose efforts he has been convicted. The Judge was pale and he almost sank under his own weight as he steadied himself and addressed the prisoner. Just as the Judge had finished his last sentence he lost control of himself and swoomned away, toppling over on the floor.

Punishment to Fit the Crime.

When Congressman Small, of North Carolina, was a young lawyer he was arguing a case before a country magistrate. "Why," said Mr. Small, "the man at the bar, Jones, would just as soon kill me right here before your face as not."

The old man slowly took out his spectacles, put them on and peered over to get a good look at the desperate Jones. Then he pointed his finger at him and said: "You Bill Jones, if you kill John H. Small here before me I'll fine you one dollar and fifty cents for contempt of court, blame my soul, if I don't!"—Woman's Home Companion.

The best Guaranty of Merit is Open Publicity.

Every bottle of Dr Pierce's world-famed medicines leaving the great laboratory at Buffalo, N. Y., has printed upon its wrapper all the ingredients entering into its composition This fact alone places Dr. Pierce's Family Medicines in a class all by themselves. They cannot be classed with patent or secret medicines because they are neither. This is why so many unprejudiced physicians prescribe them and recommend them to their patients. They know what they are composed of, and that the ingredients are those endosed by the most emient medical authorities. The further fact that neither Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, the great stomach tonic, liver invigorator, heart regulator and blood-purifier or his "Favorite Prescription" for weak, over worked, broken-down, nervous women, contains any alcohol, also entitles them to a place all by themselves.

Many years ago, Dr. Pierce discovered that chemically pure glycerine, of proper strength, is a better solvent and preservative of the medicinal principles residing in our indigenous, or native, midicinal plants than is alcohol; and, furthermore, that it possesses valuble medicinal properties of its own, being demulcent, nutritive, antiseptic, and at must efficient antiferment.

Neither of the above medicies contains alcohol. or any harmful, habit-forming drug, as will be seen from a glance at the formula printed on each bottle wrapper. They are safe to use and potent to cure.

Local Option to be an Issue.

In an article on the local option question the Pittsburg Gazette-Times presents the situation in the following manner:

"That the local option question is destined to be an issue of the first importance in the next campaign for the election of members of the state legislature is plain to be seen from the present activity of both the friends and opponents of this policy. Members of the last legislature are generally being called to account, one way or another, for their attitude on the local option bill introduced last winter, which was negatived in committee and rejected when a resolution was offered to place it on the house calendar.

"Those who opposed or dodged the bill have to stand the fire of the temperance element. Those who supported it find themselves under the ban of the liquor interests and threatened with reprisals from that quarter."

Jail and Disbarment Sentence of Lawyer.

Standing in the presence of 35 lawyers, among whom he was formerly a leader, A. W. King, of Williamsport convicted of embezzling $12,000 from the Mellick estate, Monday received the sentence of Judge Hart, which debarred him from membership in the Lycoming Bar association and imposed a fine $500, with imprisonment in the county jail for six months.

The court, addressing King, who is more than 50 years of age, said that it was an extremely hard task to be compelled to impose sentence upon one whom he had known and respected so many years, but that he had been convicted of betrayal of trust, and the court could not avoid doing its duty.

W. C. Gilmore, the defendant's lawyer, made a strong plea for leniency. A stay to the sentence was secured by making an immediate appeal to the superior court.

Snakes in White House.

During the rush of visitors at the White House last Friday, Quentin, the youngest son of the president, entered the ante-room of the president's office on roller skates.

"Is father here?" he asked of one of the secret service men. Without waiting for an answer he entered the cabinet room, where a number of visitors were seated, and passed through to the president's private office.

Quentine had in his hand a live king snake about three feet long, and from his pocket he produced two more snakes of the garter variety, also alive and wriggling

Mr. Roosevelt brought the boy back into the cabinet room, remarked to his visitors:

"My young son here will entertain you with some snakes while you are waiting."

SHEATZ IN DEMAND

Many Calls For Nominee For Treasurer to Address Voters.

TOUR A SERIES OF TRIUMPHS

People Have Confidence In the Earnestness and Sincerity of the Republican Candidate, Who Is a Great Vote-Maker.

[Special Correspondence.]

Philadelphia, Oct. 1.

With but five weeks of the state campaign remaining all signs point to the election of John O. Sheatz, the Republican nominee for state treasurer, by an unprecedently large majority for an off year.

This prediction is based, however, upon the belief that the calls that are being made by the party leaders for Republicans to qualify themselves to vote and to go to the polls on election day, Tuesday, November 5th, will be responded to generally.

While it is true that up to date there has been considerable apathy manifested in certain quarters, there is reason to believe that for the remaining days of the canvass Republicans in the various counties will be up and doing and will evince a determination to get out the party vote on election day.

The Democrats are looking ahead for the presidential election. Democratic National Committeeman from Pennsylvania James M. Guffey, by his appearance on the stage at the Democratic rally in Pittsburg last Saturday night and his activity in other directions, clearly indicates his purpose to get his party organization into line at once for next year's great political struggle.

Colonel Andrews' Timely Talk.

The interest which the Democrats are showing in national politics has not been overlooked by their Republican fellow citizens.

Colonel Wesley R. Andrews, chairman of the Republican state committee, said today:

"Pennsylvania Republicans are alive to the importance of the present contest. The opening guns of the presidential battle of next year will be fired upon election day—the 5th of next November.

"We have no fear that the grand old Keystone State will falter. We know that the young men of our state, especially, are enrolling themselves for the campaign, the outcome of which means so much to the industries of Pennsylvania.

"We know that it is everywhere admitted that the greater the Republican majority in this state this year the greater will be the recognition that will be given to Pennsylvania when the national councils of the party shall be held next year.

"Pennsylvania's vote this fall will be watched by Republicans all over the United States and will be the subject of comment as soon as it shall be announced.

"It will be the duty of every Republican to go to the polls and by his vote emphasize Pennsylvania's continued fealty to the policies of the Republican party that have resulted in the wonderful development of Pennsylvania's industries and in national prosperity."

Chairman Andrews is receiving encouraging reports from every county in the state and his headquarters in this city are daily thronged with influential Republicans manifesting a keen interest in the state canvass.

Sheatz In Great Demand.

Nominee Sheatz is in great demand. Difficulty has been experienced in arranging a schedule of meetings, owing to so many conflicting requests for dates.

Following the great demonstration given in his honor by his neighbors of West Philadelphia, Mr. Sheatz attended the meeting of the State League of Republican Clubs at Harrisburg, then he visited the Susquehanna county fair, and afterward addressed big mass meetings in Wilkes-Barre and Scranton.

Wherever he has gone, Mr. Sheatz has made a fine impression. His frank, manly and business-like talks have the ring of earnestness and sincerity, and he is making votes every hour.

That is the best government which desires to make people happy and knows how to make them happy.—Macaulay.

FIRST WIRELESS MESSAGE.

Colonel Clowry of the Western Union Claims to Have Sent It.

The strike of the telegraph operators has brought into prominence the president of the Western Union Telegraph company, Colonel Robert C. Clowry, who succeeded General Thomas T. Eckert in this position about five years ago. It may not be generally known that Colonel Clowry has some claim to being the first to use wireless telegraphy. Strange to say, his employment of it was as long ago as the period of the civil war. Born in 1839 in Will county, Ill., he entered the employ of the Illinois and Mississippi Telegraph company at Joliet in 1852 as messenger boy, and in the service of that and other companies acquired a thorough knowledge of the telegraphic science of the day. When the civil war broke out he went to the front in the Union army, and in 1863 President Lincoln commissioned him captain and assistant quartermaster of the United States army and assigned him to duty in charge of the United States telegraphic system in the southwest, with headquarters at Little Rock, Ark. Afterward he served at St. Louis.

At one time he found himself in command of the lines at a certain point in Missouri, but unable to communicate with the Union forces across the Mississippi owing to the fact that the enemy had cut the wires. The message he desired to transmit was of the utmost importance, says the Saturday Evening Post in relating the story, and could on no acount suffer delay. It was pitchy dark and the rain was descending in torrents, the wind was high and Colonel Clowry could conjure no way out of his difficulty. Suddenly he heard the toot of a locomotive on the other side of the river. An idea came to him. Only a short distance from him stood a locomotive, and, climbing into the cab, he seized the whistle cord and began to jerk it in a manner that made the engineer and fireman think he had gone crazy. There was a series of wild toots such as nobody had ever heard before in the history of railroading, but pretty soon they brought from the other side of the river answering whistles. The operator at headquarters had heard his call and realized that locomotive whistles instead of telegraph keys must be used in the transmission of an important message.

At the close of the war Colonel Clowry entered the service of the Western Union and rose to become its head.

A Kind Examiner.

Sir John Stainer was dearly loved by the students when he was professor of music at Oxford. "As an examiner he was most considerate," said one who studied under him, "and would always do his best to get you 'through.' I remember his asking me a poser in a viva voce examination. He waited patiently for the answer; but, partly through my nervousness no doubt, I could not think of it. At length he exclaimed testily, 'Dear me, how stuffy this room is, to be sure,' and he went and began tugging at the ventilator cord. It was quite two minutes before he got the thing open, and by the time he had sat down again and rearranged his gown I had the answer ready. Comparing notes later in the day with a man who was examined quite soon after me, I told him how the ventilator had served me. 'How remarkable,' he replied. 'Why, when I was stuck he said, "How extraordinary drafty this place is," and spent quite two minutes in shutting the ventilator.'"—Manchester Guardian.

The Razor In Disrepute.

"And he told her all his heart, and said unto her, there hath not come a razor upon mine head, for I have been a Nazarite unto God from my mother's womb; if I be shaven, then my strength will go from me, and I shall become weak and be like other men."—Judges xvi, 17.

Hair on man or brute is a sign of strength. He who desires to keep at a safe distance from dentists, let him keep also at a great distance from the knife of the barber. To shave is an act against nature. Provoke nature, and in return nature will provoke you.

Said Daniel Webster: "—— the razor! It has taught me to curse. It has cost me more time and more trouble than all my speeches."

Rufus Choate, the lawyer, called the razor an instrument invented by Lucifer to fill up hell with barristers.

Edward Everett never used profane language, but before shaving he would invariably give vent to all sorts of French barbarisms.

Jordan Water.

There is a general impression that the Jordan water which is used at royal baptisms is taken from the sacred stream, put into a bottle, hermetically sealed and left untouched until the bottle is opened by the officiating priest. As a matter of fact, the water which flows out of the lake of Galilee and descends a rocky gorge to a level far below that of the Mediterranean is full of organic substances. If a bottle be filled with the water and kept tightly corked for a few days it turns perfectly black, and offers to the nostrils all the odors of the tropics. The precaution is therefore taken of boiling the water and straining it before it is sealed up, and this is why the baptismal water always possesses the crystal clearness which one notices on these ceremonial occasions.—Modern Society.

The Undertaker's Shop.

"The one thing in New York that I can't get used to," said the country visitor, "is the manifold uses to which undertakers put their shops. I used to be of the opinion that the only possible errand a person could have at an undertaker's was to purchase funeral supplies, but in this town I find that people go there for all sorts of purposes. They go to vote, to get married and to transact all the legal business that a notary public is capable of transacting. Yesterday I even saw a party eating luncheon in an undertaker's establishment. They had come into town apparently to attend a funeral and instead of patronizing a restaurant they calmly munched their midday meal in the midst of those lugubrious surroundings." — New York Globe.

How They Fooled the Preacher.

When our grandmothers arranged to have chicken for Sunday dinner—for the preacher—they picked out the biggest and fattest and toughest old hen on the place Saturday afternoon and had the boys and dogs "run her down." A tough old hen that is chased all over the place and frightened out of her life is as tender as a spring lamb when cooked. Fright makes any animal, bird or fowl tender, so the books say, and it appears from this that our grandmothers knew what they were about when they had the tough old hens chased before killing.—El Dorado (Kan.) Meteor Sets Woods Afire.

The big meteor, which shot across the sky on Tuesday evening about 6:30 and was witnessed by a number of Bellefonte people, was seen by many persons in other towns, according to our exchanges. It was a brilliant spectacle. The Harrisburg Telegraph notes the falling of a meteor near Elizabethville and a report heard for miles, and which set fire to the woods and frightened hundreds of people.

The meteor when examined where it fell resembled a large mass of iron and stone and was too heavy to be moved by eight men, who attempted to roll it away.

Trio of Distinguished Pennsylvanians Blaze the Way.

REPUBLICAN LINES SOLID

Senator Knox, Governor Stuart and Former Postmaster General Smith Unite in Call to Elect John O. Sheatz State Treasurer.

[Special Correspondence.]

Harrisburg, Pa., Oct.

United States Senator Philander C. Knox, Governor Edwin S. Stuart and former Postmaster General Charles Emory Smith make a distinguished trio that have gone upon record, within the last few days, in most emphatic terms in favor of the election of John O. Sheatz, the Republican nominee for state treasurer.

Not only have they eulogized Mr. Sheatz in the highest terms, but they have sent a note of warning to Republicans of the Keystone state of the danger that would come to the Republican party in the nation as the result of a Democratic victory in Pennsylvania this fall.

Upon the eve of a presidential campaign, they plead for the wiping out of all factional lines, the cementing of the party organization, and a vigorous and aggressive onslaught upon the works of the common enemy in this, the skirmish of a great national political battle.

Knox Points the Way.

Senator Knox, who is taking a lively interest in the state campaign, has, over his own signature, just given expression to these sentiments:

"We have in Pennsylvania this year a perfectly simple proposition, and one in respect to which I do not think it is possible to mislead the public.

"The Republican party has presented a good candidate on his own and his party's good record; and, after all, how much more substantial a record is than a prospectus. There are no side issues this year and no middle ground. The issue of the campaign now on is the approval or disapproval of the party's unswerving continuity of act and purpose to express the public will in legislation and administration.

Live Issues Are Met.

"The Republican party in Pennsylvania has responded to the awakened political and commercial conscience of the people in a way which would commend itself to all to whom political and commercial rights are dear. The reform measures for the protection of the elective franchise; the abolishing of fees in elective offices; the safeguarding of the state's funds and other legislation of the late extra session of the legislature of the commonwealth, to which has been added the legislation of last winter of almost equal importance in character and effect, constitute a record of real achievement for which the Republican party can justly claim credit.

"The last time we tried conclusions in Pennsylvania with our friends of the opposition we marched to victory with Edwin S. Stuart at the head of the ticket, who, as governor, has fulfilled all the expectations and predictions expressed of him.

"Now, with a record of permanent reform to our credit, one of the fruits of which was the untrammeled selection of John O. Sheatz by delegates directly chosen by the people, we should poll a vote for this candidate of unassailed integrity and large public experience that will set at rest once and for all the shallow pretense that Republican success in this campaign involves anything beyond the indorsement of Republican policies and the calling of a well-tried and tested public servant to higher honors and graver responsibilities for which he is eminently qualified."

Governor Goes Upon Record.

Governor Stuart, who has promised to make one or more speeches in favor of Mr. Sheatz's election, in commenting upon the issues in the state canvass, said:

"This campaign turns solely upon the election of a state treasurer, and next to the election of an honest man it is important to elect a Republican. I do not propose to indulge in personalities. Mr. Harman is an upright, honest man. I have known Mr. Sheatz for 20 years, and there is no reason why every Republican cannot vote for John O. Sheatz for state treasurer. I was in almost daily contact with Mr. Sheatz during the legislative session. He was chairman of that most important committee, appropriations, and I know no man who ever held public office or trust who took care of the purse strings more honestly than did he.

"Every act that he performed was for the good of the commonwealth. I say this from a personal knowledge of the man. Sheatz stands for honesty in politics and decency in the management of public affairs. Any man who stands for anything else is not a Republican and not deserving of the name."

A Tip to the Independents.

Former Postmaster General Charles Emory Smith, and one time minister to Russia, is already upon the stump advocating the election of the Republican nominee for state treasurer.

Mr. Smith is looked upon as expressing the views of those with whom he has been associated in independent political movements in this state, and his pronounced stand in behalf of Mr. Sheatz has discouraged the Democrats, who had been counting upon independent support for their ticket.

"I am glad," says Mr. Smith, "that the Republican party is now united in Pennsylvania in support of an exceptionally strong candidate for the office of state treasurer.

"The party is harmonious, and I am asking all who have stood with me in the past, for the principles which I have championed, to give loyal and earnest support to the Republican nominee for state treasurer, Mr. John O. Sheatz.

"Mr. Sheatz has a splendid record as a member of the general assembly.

"In 1905 he alone of all the members of the legislature from Philadelphia had the courage and independence to stand up and vote against the ripper bill. He was chairman of the committee of appropriations, and in all the work of that important committee, around which the cormorants of the state flutter, there is not a single blot or blemish, and there has not been a criticism of any of its actions."

Messrs. Knox, Stuart and Smith all predict the election of Mr. Sheatz by a large majority.

HAPPY MARRIAGES.

Value of the Spirit of Compromise in Wedded Life.

If marriage meant the wedding of a saint and an angel there would be no problems to solve, no perfections to attain, no progress to make. This may be why there are no marriages in heaven.

On earth it is different. Husband and wife are strongly human. No matter how lovingly united or how sweet their accord, they never have the same temperaments, tendencies or tastes.

Their needs are different, their manner of looking at things is not identical and in varying ways their individualities assert themselves. At any critical moment if both express at the same time a desire to defer to the other's taste the result is foreordained—happiness. This makes matrimony not merely union, but unison and unity.

The spirit of compromise does not mean a continuous performance in the way of self surrender and self sacrifice; it does not mean ceasing to be a voice and becoming an echo; it does not imply or justify the loss of individuality. It means simply the instinctive recognition of the best way out of a difficulty, the quickest tacking to avoid a collision, the kindly view of tolerance in the presence of weakness and errors of another, the courage to meet an explanation half way, the generosity to be first to apologize for a discord, the largeness of mind that does not fear a sacrifice of dignity in surrendering in the interests of the highest harmony of the two rather than the personal vanity.—Delineator.

ALWAYS CHEERFUL.

Even When He Lost Both Feet He Could Find Consolation.

Brown's cheerfulness was a source of wonder and admiration to his friends, according to the Ladies' Home Journal. Either his religion or his philosophy taught him to accept everything as a wise dispensation. But then he had a large share of worldly goods, his friends argued, and nothing but adversity would shake his faith.

Therefore when a promising crop was washed away by a flood the neighbors were much astonished to hear him say: "It's all for the best. I was blessed with an overabundance last year."

In the winter his house was burned to the ground. To his neighbors' solicitations he calmly responded, "The house never suited us anyway, so it is all for the best."

Other calamities befell Brown, but still he refused to be disheartened.

The climax came when he was in a railroad accident. Both feet were so badly crushed that amputation was necessary.

Sympathetic friends gathered from all quarters. They dreaded to hear the lamentations they were sure would greet them, for even Brown could hardly be expected to pass this lightly by.

"Guess you are pretty well discouraged, aren't you, with both feet cut off?" ventured some one. "Do you think this is all for the best?"

But Brown nodded his head, smiling wanly, and said:

"They were always cold anyway!"

Desiring and Attaining.

Between desire and attaining, all human life flows on throughout. The wish is, in its nature, pain; the attainment soon begets satiety, the end was only apparent; possession takes away the charm; the wish, the need, presents itself under a new form when it does not; then follow desolateness, emptiness, ennui—against which the conflict is just as painful as against want. That wish and satisfaction should follow each other neither too quickly nor too slowly, reduces to the smallest amount the suffering which both occasion, and constitutes the happiest life.—Arthur Schopenhauer.

Sensible Preference.

In one of Miss Mulock's stories she says that "a cheerful heart seeth cheerful things" and gives this incident in proof of it:

A lady and gentleman were in a lumber yard situated by a dirty, foul smelling river. The lady said, "How good the pine boards smell!"

"Pine boards!" exclaimed the gentleman. "Just smell that foul river!"

"No, thank you," was the reply; "I prefer to smell the pine boards."

GOVERNOR'S CLOSE CALL.

Pennsylvania's Chief Executive Had a Narrow Escape.

A TEAM WAS THE CAUSE

It was Attached to a Carriage in Which Governor Stuart Was a Passenger

NO ONE WAS SERIOUSLY HURT

Norfolk, Va., October 4—Governor Stuart of Pennsylvania and President Harry St. George Tucker of the Jamestown exposition had narrow escapes from serious injury and possibly death on the outside of the exposition grounds today prior to the commencement of the Pennsylvania Day celebration there.

A runaway team, attached to a carriage in which were members of Governor Stuart's staff and others, dashed into the Pennsylvania soldiers, missed by a hair's breath the carriage ahead containing Governor Stuart and President Tucker who would both have been dashed into the water below had they been struck. The runaway horses were stopped by the soldiers striking them in the head with their guns. No one was seriously hurt. The accident occurred on the long Deep Water pier.

The governor of Pennsylvania and his party had landed at the Deep Water pier at Pine Beach from the boat which brough them across Hampton Rhoads from Old Point Comfort and the procession headed by the Ninth Pennsylvania regiment of the National Guard had started up the pier, which is 2 000 feet long, for the exposition grounds, when the horses attached to the large vehicle containing the members of Governor Stuart's staff and others took fright and made their dash. After the horses were stopped by the soldiers the procession without further untoward incident.

At the main entrance to the auditorium Governor Swanson accompanied by a large and distinguished party of exposition officials, prominent Virginians and others, met Governor Stuart and the Keystone state officials and the governors of Virginia and Pennsylvania proceeded, arm in arm, to the stage where the exercises were held with Henry F. Walton, chairman of the Pennsylvania executive committee, presiding.

The Renewal a Strain.

Vacation is over. Again the school bell rings at morning and at noon, again with tens of thousands the hardest kind of work has begun, the renewal of which is a mental and physical strain to all except the most rugged. The little girl that a few days ago had roses in her cheeks, and the little boy whose lips were then so red you whould have insisted that they had been "kissed by strawberries," have already lost something of the appearance of health. Now is a time when many children should be given a tonic which may avert much serious trouble, and we known of no other so highly to be recommended as Hood's Sarsaparilla, which strengthens the nerves, perfects digestion and assimilation, and aids mental develoment by building up the whole system.

—Congratulations should be extended to the Philadelphia young woman who was plucky and sensible enough to complain to a policeman regarding the conduct of a street rowdy of the "masher" type who had been annoying her. The sentence of ten days in jail imposed on the fellow was none too severe, and it should be followed up by similar action in all cases when proof can be procured against those unmanly scamps who make a practice of addressing insulting remarks to decent women, not only in Philadelphia, but in Bellefonte and all other cities.

—You will have to travel into the large cities to find a better and more artistic window trimmer than Sigmund Joseph. The one he has dressed for their fall opening is certainly pretty and shows up to perfection, his own original ideas of how a window should be trimmed for an occasion of this kind.

—On Friday a man, (no not a man something else) on Howard street beat his dog across the back and head with a shovel and left the poor beast to die, eight or ten hours afterwards he returned and found the animal still living, he then riddled it full of holes with a shot gun. The fellow is nothing but a coward and next to a criminal. If he wanted to kill the dog why didn't he do it without having it suffer all day with a broken back and legs. Some one should treat this fellow to a coat of tar and feather.

—The Pennsylvania Railroad company's new school of telegraphy was opened at Bedford last week. Recent national legislation requiring that railway telegraphers shall not work more than nine hours a day has necessitated a large increase in the number of railway telegraphers. The bulk of the expenses of the school will be assumed by the company, but a nominal charge $2 a month, is made to students. Young men betwee 17 and 25 years of age are wanted. They will be trained in all the duties of a railroad operator and station agent by the men who now have charge of these branches of work. In order that there training may be thoroughly practical, the regular wires of the Bedford division are run through the schoolroom.
